Tuesday, April 20. 1708.

From the Antwerp Courant, dated April 28.

Badajos, April 3.

THE Marquis de Bay came hither from Alcantara the first of this Month, and has sent Orders to the Troops that are Quarter'd in this Neighbourhood to hold themselves ready to take the Field upon the first Orders: The eight French Battalions and the four Regiments of Horse, that are coming out of Arragon with a great Convoy of 4 or 500 Waggon's loaded with Ammunition, arriv'd the 28th of March at Almaraz, where they were to rest some Days, they being very much fatigu'd by their long March through Roads that the great Rains had render'd almost unpassable. The Marquis de Bay, when all his Troops are drawn into a Body, will have an Army of 16000 Men, with which he will besiege Olivenea. The Town of Seville has promis'd to furnish a great quantity of Forage, which is so very scarce in these Parts, that most of the Villages are abandon'd and left without Inhabitants.

Madrid, April 10. The Duke of Orleans is to set out on the 12th of this Month for Saragossa, to draw together the Troops that are to compose his Army. All the Spanish and French Generals and other Officers, that are still in this City, have Orders to repair forthwith to their respective Posts. We have Advice from Fraga and Lerida, that the Enemies are throwing up several Works to cover Tortosa and Tarragona, which two Places, though they are very strong, we must be Masters of before we can safely enter into Catalonia. They write from Valencia that on the 26th of last Month M. Mahoni, with 5 Spanish Regiments of Foot march'd out of that Kingdom for Cartagena, where above 30 Vessels were lying to take them aboard and transport them to Sicily.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated April 27.

Turin, April 7. His Royal Highness return'd hither on Saturday last from Suza, having order'd some new Works to be added to the Fortifications of that Place, and taken a View of the Passes that lead into Dauphine. He has declar'd the Baron of St. Remi Lieutenant Field-Marshal. Our Advices are so various concerning the Number of the Enemy's Forces in Dauphine, that we cannot give any certain Account of them: But they give out that their Army will be 25000 if not 30000 strong. His Royal Highness has sent some Troops into the Valley of Aoste. A Battalion of this Garrison is gone thither, and is to be follow'd by three others.

Milan, April 14. Yesterday arriv'd an Express from Vienna with the good News that the Enemy's Design upon Scotland had miscarry'd, which has occasion'd here a great deal of Joy. M. Staremburg, who return'd on Saturday last from Turin, is to set out in 5 or 6 Days for Genoa, where 2 Men of War lie ready to Convoy him to Catalonia, and the rest of the Succours will follow him assoon as the Squadron of the Allies arrives. We have receiv'd Advice that the Duke of Savoy has order'd his Troops to march out of their Quarters, and to Cantion themselves; his Royal Highness designing to enter into Dauphine by the beginning of next Month.

From the Antwerp Gazette, dated April 27.

Paris, April 23. The Duke of Vendome's Departure for Flanders is fixt for the 25th of this Month. The Troops of the King's Household have Orders to hasten their March to the Frontiers. The Duke of Berwick had again Yesterday a long Conference with the King, from whom he has receiv'd his last Orders and Instructions to go to Grenoble, in order to take upon him the Command of the Army against the Duke of Savoy, who we hear is making great Preparations in Piemont, to enter into Dauphine with a considerable Army. 'Tis said at Court that M. Villars will endeavour to bring to pass a certain Design, to which end he will tend to the Moselle a great Detachment of his Army. On Saturday last the pretended Prince of Wales return'd from St. Omers to St. Germain. Several English Gentlemen, who were with him on the Coast of Scotland, have desir'd leave of the King to serve this Year in Spain under the Duke of Orleans, which Request of theirs is granted, but on Condition that no one of them have an Equipage of above 12 Persons and 8 Horses. The Duchess of Burgundy's being with Child is become uncertain, as is by consequence the King's Journey to Fontainebleau. We have Advice by an Express from Rouffillon, that the Duke of Noailles arriv'd the 17th at Perpignan, and intended to March with his Army towards Gironne on the 24th or 25th at farthest.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated April 27.

Amsterdam, April 27. Our Advices from France say, that it was upon the Duke of Vendome's Request that the King sent M. de Chamillard into Flanders, to Visit the Places and Magazines, that care might be taken to provide many things that were wanting in them, and that the Court knew nothing of. These Letters add, that the Men of War that were laid under Water last Campaign at Toulon are weigh'd up, but so much damag'd that they can never more be fit for Service. The Grand Prior of France pass'd through Lions on the 8th Instant in his return to Court. Several Bills of Exchange are protest'd in the last Payments from Lions. The Duke of Orleans has repeated his Complaints, that he found nothing ready in Spain, though he was assur'd before his Departure that he would find all things in a Condition for him to enter upon Action assoon as he arriv'd there, but 'tis not wholly the Spaniards Fault, for the Bills of Exchange that were given him at Paris, have been protest'd in Spain. These Disappointments have retarded the opening of the Campaign in Catalonia till the End of this Month. They write from Dusseldorf that Prince Eugene of Savoy arriv'd there the 22d, and was to set out the 24th for Hanover.

From the Antwerp Gazette, dated April 27.

Strasbourg, April 16. Yesterday and the day before M. Villars review'd the Troops in the Camp near Dachstein, since which they are come to encamp at Achenheim, three Leagues from hence, and will continue there till the coming up of the Troops which they yet expect from the Upper Alsacia, and from the Lines of Lauterbourg. Two Bridges are laid over the Rhine near Fort-Louis; and great quantites of Ammunition, and Provisions of all sorts are brought hither. The Designs are kept so secret, that we can guess nothing of them, but we flatter our selves that the Army will march over the Rhine, and attack the Enemy's new Lines, if possible; that the Army may afterwards fall into the Country of Wirtemberg, and thereby compel the Dutchy and some other Principalities to a Neutrality.

Philipsbourg, April 18. The French are coming with all their Forces towards the Lower Alsacia, but we cannot learn what they design. Meanwhile General Thungen is drawing together all the Troops of the Allies behind the new Lines; and when the Troops of Franconia, Swabia, and the other Circles, which are expected in a few Days; arrive, the Confederate Army will be in a Condition, not only to defend themselves against the Enemy, but even to go in search of them. Expresses are sent to Hanover to give the Elector Advice of the Enemy's Motions.

Hanover, April 20. The Baggage of our Elector is ready, and three of our Regiments began their March Yesterday for the Rhine: However the Day of his Electoral Highness's Departure for Philipsbourg is not yet fix'd, because Prince Eugene of Savoy, the Duke of Marlborough, and several other Princes are expected here next Week to confer with him concerning the Operations of the ensuing Campaign.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated April 27.

Brussels, April 23. M. d' Auverquerque grows better and better. He has sent Orders to the Guards de Corps that are at the Hague, to march with all Expedition into these Parts, where the Troops will Canton the beginning of next Month, that the Army may be form'd by the time that the Duke of Marlborough arrives. The Enemy are likewise preparing to take the Field early; and their Troops begin already to file off from all their Quarters towards the Place of their Rendezvous. Their Army is to be form'd near St. Amand: And in the mean time they will draw together a strong Body of Men near Roquenne, to cover the Line they intend to throw up between Lisle and Tournay, upon which they will begin to work next Week. They write from Mons that M. Chamillard set out from thence the 18th for Paris, after having conferr'd with the Elector of Bavaria; and that a Servant belonging to Baron Simeoni and an Italian Merchant were put into Prison, being accus'd of holding Correspondence by Letters with the Allies.
